

How do I treat my grass from urine

I found the answer. A 'rock'. Yes it sounds crazy but I use it now with 6 dogs and it truly works. It is a rock you can purchase at specialty stores. For example, in Omaha, NE you can find it at Green Spot or Long Dog Fat Cat. It is in a brown paper bag and it is called 'Dog Rocks' 100% Natural.

My backyard was a war zone of yellow/burned grass and no longer. We noticed new burn spots a few days ago and realized it was from our new foster dog. After drinking the water with the rock in it for a few days no longer. My dogs have never tried to remove the rock from their drinking water.

Note: If you have dogs that pees on your landscaping rocks or on your deck with rocks underneath, I am sure you have urine smells in the hot summer months. I know of a cheap and fast way to fix that. I spray white vinegar over the rocks every month. No more smell.
